TEST DEFENSES AGAINST JAPS

Seattle and Portland to Be Attacked by Cruisers.

Similar Drills at Other Ports During the Summer.

People of the Puget Sound cities who may be apprehensive of armed conflict between the United States and Japan at some time in the future, will have opportunity to learn just how well defended they are from any attacking party, as the result of a test to be made jointly by the militia and coast artillery on the Sound, in attempts to ward off attacks made by a number of war vessels from the Pacific squadron.

Plans have just been completed by the War Department for its part of the fight, and the Navy Department will shortly assign a small squadron of cruisers to the task. The attack and from July 4 to the 13th of that month, the nation's great holiday for celebration to be ushered in by the boom of many guns, announcing the attack and that Seattle and Portland will soon know their fate, if the imaginary enemy should be successful in silencing the

The problem to be worked out is to defend the city of Seattle, principally, from attacks by sea. A fleet is to attempt to run by Forts Warden, Casey, and Flagler, and to land troops from transports so as to take the forts from Co-operating with the regu lar troops in the forts will be the ond Infantry Regiment of the Washington National Guards. The program being arranged for the instruction of the militia as much as to test the formidability of the forts. Four companies of the guards will be stationed at Fort Warden, three at Fort Casey, and four companies at Fort Flagler. The attacking fleet will be represented by every available army transport and other vessels from San Francisco and other Pacific coast points.

Similar Drills at All Ports.

During the summer similar drills will be held at practically every port in the United States where coast artillery is stationed. In a short while a program will be drawn up for a like attack on and defense of Baltimere, Washington, and Philadelphia. Baltimore will be pro tected by the guns of Forts Howard and Henry, aided by detacaments of the Maryland National Guard, while Wash ington will be protected by Forts Hunt and Washington, aided by the Distric of Columbia National Guard.

The War Department is especially pleased with the results achieved in the oint drill at New York, which has just been concluded, and in which everything passed off without a hitch The State militia worked in conjunction with regular troops with the greatest enthusiasm and accord. The spirit has been manifested in the replies that have been received from other State organizations, which are later to be called into action. General Murray, chief of artillery, who originated the idea of supplementing the comparatively small regular coast artillery with the regulars is more than pleased with the success which so far has attended his efforts.

He was found mitted. shortly after 6 o'clock by his daughter.

Rushing into the house, the girl notified her brother, Frank Mettler, who went to the shed and cut the body down. Dr. Louis K. Beatty, of 610 East Capitol, was summoned, and pronounced life extinct.

Paralyzed in April.

Just as he was preparing to start for he navy yard on the morning of April 3, Mr. Mettler was stricken with paralysis. For several days he lingered between life and death. When he began to recover it was found that he had lost the power of speech and was unable to utter a single word. Since then he has been almost helpless. Discouraged because of his condition, he had made it known to members of the family that he contemplated ending his life with the Post family that they are no longer phenomena.

Orchard's Closing Day.

Harry Orchard was the first witness oday in the Steunenburg murder trial. He was examined by the defense in rder that a series of impeachment uestions could be presented. The proseution then took up the re-direct exmination and tried to clear up several oints relative to the alleged conspiracy Both sides agree that this can be completed within the day, so it will be completed within the complete day of the term of sourt. This procedure will continue from time to time until after the cases of Haywood, Moyer, and Pettibone, each of whom is to have a separate trial, are finally disposed of. This insures Orchard an easy life in the State-penitentiary of Idaho.

Orchard was in conference with Detective McPartland and Prosecutors Hawley and Borah in Hawley's office. Reports have it that the State's atcorneys are seeking further suggestions from their chief witness to connect Haywood with the crimes Orchard ad-

Senator Foraker will go to Cincinnati, arriving there on Wednesday, and on Thursday will deliver an address at Wilberforce University, a negro educational institution. In his speech he will handle the question of the responsibility for the Brownsville affray. On Friday he will speak on railroad legislation before the national convention of freight traffic agents at Put-in-Bay. He has an invitation to go to Toledo Saturday.

The Senator will be kept busy with invitations for public speeches, some of them on political matters.
